ARBORGLYPH PRESERVATION PROJECT

The University of Nevada in Reno, Boise State and Cal State Bakersfield are collaborating to document Basque tree carvings. Shepherders would often carve names, dates and drawings on trees as they watched their herds. The carvings have lasted through the years and is a remarkable legacy; a true art form. Below is a photo of Raymond Bachoc after having found his original carving in 1950. He would later carve "1984" on the same carving and find it again with his three oldest daughters, Maitecha, Kathie and Jenny in 2011.
